Privacy Policy

At Inventure we maintain contacts of a strong and competent network and we are always happy to reach out and try to help different players in the ecosystem. We believe in the “pay it forward” approach which also means that we maintain a network of contacts stored in our systems. However, “from great power comes great responsibility”. Here you can read more about our privacy policy.

When you start interacting with Inventure there will most likely be an exchange of personal information. Underneath you'll find more information on what data we collect. Depending on the point of contact with Inventure, we might also record your location (such as country and city). Our websites www.inventure.vc and www.inventureawake.com collect cookies to analyze user's behavior and help us understand what are the most valuable or helpful sections in our sites.

The data is used by Inventure Team to carry out activities related to our core business: LP communication, fundraising process, portfolio and dealflow communication as well as community initiatives. We work with investors, entrepreneurs, industry experts and local startup community alike. For all data categories above, we take security seriously and apply industry standard security measures to ensure adequate protection of your data.

Our website may contain links to other websites which are outside our control and are not covered by this privacy policy. If you do visit other websites from www.inventure.vc or www.inventureawake.com domain, please refer to their privacy policy to know how they manage the data.
